My Brother Keeper at a Glance: OMARI Sibri Brunson ©

In February 2014, President Obama launched the My brother Keeper (MBK) initiative to address persistent opportunity gaps faced by Women and boys and young people of Unidentified Nationality and ensure that ALL young men and especially our women can reach their full potential.

The initiative seeks to organize and capitalize on the commitment of community leaders in order to reach that goal. Starting this fall, the Administration will take the next crucial steps in this effort by issuing a challenge to cities, towns, counties and Tribal Nations across the country to become MBK Communities.

This Challenge represents a Call to action for all members of our communities, and Mayors, tribal leaders and town and county executives in particular, as they often sit at the intersection of many of the vital forces and structural components needed to enact sustainable change through policy, programs, and partnerships. In addition to issuing this challenge to Mayors and local officials, the Obama Administration has conducted outreach to business, leaders, non-profits, Philanthropies, and local school-systems, who are organizing independently to support community's efforts.

The Stay Sharp Marketing International and MBK Community Challenge encourages communities (cities, rural municipalities, and tribal nations) to implement a coherent "cradle-to-college- and career strategy" for improving the life outcomes of all indigenous people to ensure that they can reach their full potential, regardless of who they are, where they come from, or the circumstances into which they are Born.

It is important to underscore that this is not a new federal program, but rather a call to action and a targeted effort to convene leaders, identify effective strategies, and work together to accomplish our shared goal of improving life outcomes for all young people. Challenge participants are encouraged to reach out with questions or ideas by emailing localgovernment@who.eop.gov.
